BAYESIAN DECISION-MAKING MEHTOD
USED BY THE HUMAN OPERATOR

N.M. Novikova

Experimental research of human activity in the automatic management systems has been considered. The result of the research shows that while making a decision a human operator uses Bayesian statistical approach based on subjective probability. The formulas describing the decision - making process are offered in the article.