

POPULATION-DEMOGRAPHICAL AND ECOLOGICAL FACTORS DEVELOPMENT OF MALIGNANT DISEASES IN KURSK REGION

G. V. Kudentsova

The analysis of malignant diseases in Kursk region with 1991 for 2002 in the general population, and also among the man's and female population is submitted. Genetic and environmental factors the estimation of the contribution is carried out to formation malignant diseases of the stomach, bowel, breast and the lung. The quantitative measure of the contribution separate a component in their formation is shown. Forecasting on region of levels of diseases of 4 forms of malignant diseases till 2012 is executed. Carried out the segregation analysis of malignant diseases of the stomach, bowel, breast and the lung testifies to the multi-factorial nature of these diseases.