

THE METHOD OF THE INVESTMENT FORMATION IN FIXED CAPITAL OF AGRARIAN SECTOR OF RUSSIAN ECONOMY

V.G. Zakshevskiy, D.S. Zhdanov

This article is about the method of the investment formation in fixed capital of agrarian sector of Russian economics at the modern stage are observed. The existing variety of economic forms in the rural area objectively dictates the necessity of state support of agricultural producers, as well as the forming of alternative sources of investment, the access to which should be given to all participants of economic process. In order to support the foodstuffs security of the country and a certain level of the effectiveness of agricultural production the authors suggest several approaches, which refer to the concept of creation of the internal capital market, within the framework of which the money flows from different arts of activities are concentrated and which are then directed to the more economically effective projects.