

APPLICATION OF ARTIFICIAL NEURAL NETWORKS FOR WELL-LOG DATA INTERPRETATION

S.N. Rodina, C.Yu. Silkin

This article contains results of artificial neural network application for interpretation of well geophysical researches data. Bases of the artificial neural networks theory are presented. Experience of an artificial intellect application is studied. The technique of used data preparation is described. Results of the network training and application are discussed.