

THE CONFLICTING MEASUREMENTS OF COOPERATION

S.M. Kalashnikova

The article presents analysis of conflicting measurements of cooperation. The author considers conflict and cooperation as the definite kinds of interaction in accordance with the following parameters: 1) conflict - as a part and a result of cooperation; 2) cooperation as a way to solve any conflict and its behavioral strategy; 3) the conflicting cooperation as a peculiar world. So it allows to apprehend conflict as a stimulus to get new experience, new knowledge, which allows to create.