

SUFFIXES MARKED AS COLLOQUIAL IN THE SYSTEM OF WORD-FORMATION IN SPOKEN GERMAN

Antropova N.A.

Word-formation in the informal language uses almost all possible means and methods of word-formation characteristic for the German language as a whole. However there exist some characteristic peculiarities. For example, in the process of analysis of morphological and semantic structures of German colloquial nouns chosen by continuous selection among words presented in lexicological dictionaries of contemporary colloquial German the author of the article has detected more than 200 lexicological units, formed with the help of suffixes marked as colloquial.