

MAJOR TRENDS IN THE HISTORY OF SPANISH ADVERBS STUDIES

V.V. Korneva

The article considers the basic trends in studying adverbs by Russian and foreign linguists' works, starting with the first grammar of the Spanish language written by A. de Nebriha (1492) and finishing with the three volumes of "The Descriptive Grammar of the Spanish Language" (1999). It reveals both objective and subjective difficulties in developing non-contradictive and logically substantiated classification of adverbs.
