

TAX PROCESS STRUCTURE

I.A. Saprykina

Tax process is a new phenomenon in the law of the Russian Federation. Nowadays the determination of its structure is very important both from theoretical and practical points. Different points of view applied to the category of "the structure of the tax process" are very essential now in the tax science. In the article the author substantiates her attitude towards the structure of the tax process.