

THE PROBLEM OF ECOLOGICAL ETHIC IN THE EUROPEAN CULTURAL CIVILIZATION PROCESS

N.Y. Udalova

The article analyzes the possible ways of ecological ethics construction and presents the comparative analysis of moral perception lines in the cultures of the West and the East. The ecological ethics as a phenomenon of the Western culture is the assertion of the value not of life itself in its general meaning (the Oriental model of ecological ethics) but of a human life in its strict corporeal natural sense.